

Stuck For Ideas for Mum and Dad this Christmas?

Look no further. zuuMedia are offering an unusual and practical Christmas present for the silver surfer or technically challenged in your family.

If your parents are constantly seeking your help in sorting out the gremlins in their computer, or if you live too far away to pop over to explain and show them how to manipulate and print their digital photos, or attach a document to an email etc. etc., we have the perfect solution.

For the first time this Christmas zuuMedia are offering an unusual and practical present. We have launched a stylish business card shaped CD gift card which gives the recipient a 3, 6 or 12 month membership of Instant Computer Support for £26.97, £49.45 and £98.89 respectively. We're also throwing in an additional month's membership for free and all memberships include an Award Winning Internet Security suite worth £29.99 per year.

This unique computer support service is run by our team of friendly expert staff, who are on call anytime to fix your problems. zuuMedia's amazing software allows your screen to be shared with our highly trained support staff. You are immediately connected to a real person via your internet connection and support is given at the level you need. It is completely private and secure. You can watch and learn what we're doing and terminate the remote session any time you wish.

zuuMedia membership offers incredible value for money. Our research shows the lowest one off call out charge for a local computer technician would be around £30, with the inconvenience of waiting for an available appointment. zuuMedia offers instant, unlimited and easy support, 24/7 for only £8.99 a month!

Members' computer privacy is very important to zuuMedia and, as well as including award winning security as part of the membership, we service your computer regularly to ensure it is up to date, fully protected and running optimally. Most people leave themselves exposed to security problems such as identity theft without even realizing it. zuuMedia solves this problem.

This gift card from zuuMedia makes a very different and unique Christmas present for anyone who needs help and protection for their home computer and associated peripherals. It is also a great idea for anyone who works freelance from home.

The CD gift card is delivered in a beautiful high quality gold or black envelope either to your address or to the recipient's and contains easy to follow instructions on how to get started.
